EUGENE MEYER & CO.

Take pleasure in announcing to their many patrons, and the public in general, that their Fall Importations have arrived, and Mens', Youths' and Boys' Clothing Department.

The distinguishing feature of our really grand display of Ready-made Garments for Mens', Youths' and Boys' Wear, consists in the fact that the material used is of the very best the looms of Foreign and Domestic Manufacturers can bring forth. Linings and Trimmings being first-class, correspond in texture, as well as fabric, with the material of the garment. As to the cut and fit, the garments are indeed an eminent success, and elicit highly flattering criticisms from all sides. Through untiring efforts we have and OVERCOATS which will meet the appreciation of our patrons, being, in all respects, the most complete and most choice as-

A Poisoner Arres

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—At the weekly meeting of the Woman's Na-A Chicago dispatch of the 28th, says: A romantic story of man's treachery is connected with the arrest of Walter H. Chase, who spent Tuesday night in the county jail. He was brought from Atlantic City by a detective. Early last January, a young woman, only a short time a bride, left her home at Oakland, Cal., to join her husband, who was working in one of the mines near Tucson, Arizona, En route she met Chase, who, although a perfect stranger to her, manager to make her acquaintance, and s ader on the start. She covered the cago and registered as Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hunt. The next morning ing her daily bread, bearing the burden of her sorrow as best she could. All efforts of the police to find Chase proved fruitless until it was learned a few days ago that he was stopping with his brother, who is engaged in the newspaper business in Atlantic City. His arrest promptly followed. The prisoner, when interviewed, said that his brother the city of the December 19th. he himself is respectably connected.

A Reautiful Poem—Overworked Farmers Live-Stock Subjects—Saving the Plum Grop—Home Matters—Notes.

The Farmer's Wife.

Bird-like, she's up at the day-dawn's blush,
In Summer heats or Winter snows;
Her veins with healthful blood aftush,
Her breath of balm, her cheeks a rose;
In eyes—the kindliest eyes on earth—
Are sparkles of a homely mirth;
Demure, arch humor is ambushed in
The clear curves of her dimpled chin.
Ahl guileless creature, hale and good,
Ahl found of wholesome womanhood,
Far from the world's unhallowed strife,
God's blessing on the Farmer's Wife!

I love to mark her matron charms,
Her fearless steps through household wa
Her sunburnt hands and buxom arms,
Her waist, unbound by tortaring stays;
Blithe as a bee, with busy care,
She's here, she's thems, she's everywhere;
Long ere the clock has struck for noon,
Home chords of toil are all in tune,
And from each richly bounteous hour
She drains its use as bees a flower.
Apart from Passion's pain and strife,
Peace gently girds the Farmer's Wite!

Homeward, his daily labors done,
The stalwart farmer slowly plods,
From battling between shade and sun,
With sullen glebe and stubborn sods,
Her Welcome on his spirit bowed
Is sunshine flashing on a cloud!
All vanished is the brief eclipse!
Hark to the sound of wedded lips,
And words of tender warmth that start
From out the husband's grateful heart;
Ol well he knows how van is life,
Unsweetened by the Farmer's Wife?

But lo! the height of pure delight
Come's with the evening's stainless joys,
When by the hearthstone's spaces bright
Blend the glad tomes of girls and boys;
Their voices rise in gleeful swells,
The laughter rings like slin bells,
Till with a look, 'twixt smile and frown,
The mother lays her infant down,
And at her firm, uplifted hand,
There's silence 'mid the jovial band,
Her signal stills their harmless strife—
Love crowns with law the Farmer's Wife!

Ye dames in proud palatial halls—
Of lavish wiles and jeweled dress,
On whom, perchance, no infant calls,
(For barren oft your loveliness)
Turn hitherward those languid eyes,
And for a moment's space be wise;
Your sister 'mid the country dew
Is three times nearer Heaven than you;
And where the palms of Eden stir,
Dream not that ye shall stand by her,
Tho' in your false, bewildered life,
Your folly scorned the Farmer's Wife.
— |Paul Hamilton Hayn

of "overworked farmers" is true to life, and the advice to change some of the hard lines is good. Read and reflect: "At this season of the year, when the cultivation and harvesting of farm crops claim the constant attention of farmers, and when excessive heat makes hard work so depressing, there is danger from overwork with the ambitious farmer, who has his entire mind on the safety of his crops. Probably one-half of the farmers of our country work too hard for the good of their health, and very often it is entirely unnecessary. Farmers who the safety of t tire mind on the safety of his crops. Probably one-half of the farmers of our country work too hard for the good of their health, and very often it is entirely unnecessary. Farmers who have a number of workmen under their supervision can usually accomplish nearly as much by their minds as by their hands, and with less fatigue. There is much in the management of farm laborers, and to direct one's hands so as to accomplish the greatest amount of work in the least time is one of the secrets of successful farming. The farmer who toils incessantly through the day in the hot sun, or perhaps in the rain, besides doing ethores morning and night finds little. ps in the rain, bei nores morning and night, finds little easure in life. And he realizes less, oo, from his labor than he expects. A more successful farmer will hire his more successful farmer will hire his hard work done, and keep himself fresh and vigorous, and his hands encouraged by performing less work himself and directing and showing others. In every large business where laborers are hired, a person is needed whose chief business it is to plan, lay out and direct work, and it he lds true as much on a farm as in a machine ★ archouses Corner ALISO and ALAMEDA

No. 1 Areadia Block, Los Angeles St., Los Angel It takes a little time, of course, to unhitch from the plow or mower and drive to a neighboring creek, spring or watering tub, or to bring a pailfull to the thirsty beasts during the foremon and afternoon; but, if the driver wishes to quench his thirst, a half-hour's time is often taken to procure a cooling draft, and it is not time lost. Moreover, if horses are not allowed to at noon or at night, they are apt to overdrink, unless carefully watched, burying their heads almost up to the eyes sometimes, in their eagerness to allay their thirst. Water in proper quantity is quite as necessary as food, and we, the horses' keepers, should be wise enough to know when they need

The Profit of Cows.

The Darlington (Wisconsin) Republican publishes the following statement made by the proprietor of a creamery made by the proprietor of a c The Profit of Cows.

f that place:
The total income of twenty-eight The total income of twenty-eight patrons was $55,936 from 211 average cows, equal to $26.30 per month for the average time, five months and twelve days. All farmers know that with proper handling, a cow will give a flow of milk eight months in the year, and many contend that a heffer will flow eleven months. started right will flow eleven months at five years old; call the season eight months, and we have as the butter product $38.96. Every calf dropped is worth $5, the skim milk is worth at is worth $5, the skim milk is worth at least $3. Here we have the average cow producing nearly $47 a year. Is it any wonder that dairy farmers in New York, Pennsylvania and northern Ohio live in fine houses and have big barns? What our farmers want to do is to get rid of their poor cows, quit sowing flax and wheat, seed down, club together and buy a few Jersey bulls, and in five years Lafayette county will show cows, not equal to Jersey Queen, whose record is 778 pounds in one year, but good enough to sell for $100.
